Loudoun County Health Department Reports First COVID-19 Death

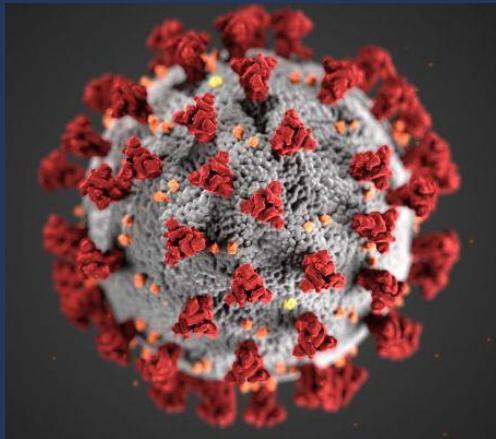

The Loudoun County Health Department is reporting its first death of a hospitalized patient who previously tested positive for the virus that causes COVID-19.

"We are saddened by the first confirmed death of a Loudoun County resident due to COVID-19. Our hearts go out to her loved ones," said Loudoun County Health Department Director Dr. David Goodfriend. "The health of our residents is our top priority and we ask that everyone do their part to slow the spread of the virus in our community: practice social distancing, wash your hands, and cover coughs and sneezes."

Loudoun Health Officials: First Coronavirus Testing is for Those Most at Risk

As availability of testing for coronavirus begins to improve, Loudoun County health officials say it is important that these tests be available to those at highest risk of complications from infection and those essential to maintaining health care delivery and services and public safety.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends that the following people outside the hospital setting who have symptoms consistent with coronavirus be prioritized for testing:

- Health care workers.
- Patients in long-term care facilities.
- Patients 65 years of age and older.
- Patients with underlying high risk medical conditions.
- First responders

If you are not in one of the priority groups listed above or in a priority group listed by your doctor's office or a drive-through testing service, at this time the Loudoun County Health Department recommends that you do not request testing, even if sick, so those at higher risk are able to be screened.

Metro Takes Additional Steps, Coordinates with Public Health Authorities on COVID-19

Metro's Pandemic Task Force announced the strategic closing of 17 additional metro stations, effective today, Thursday, March 26, 2020.

These closure are an effort to conserve critical resources and protect the health and safety of Metro employees and the public. This follows drastic measures already taken to reduce travel on Metro to essential trips only, leading to a Metrorail ridership decline of 90 percent.
